

Company profile

Over the course of the past three decades, Intervox, a family enterprise, established by a father and son, Joseph and Meny Ganan became Israel's leading company by mastering audio technology in 3 fields:

1 Bus and coach multimedia systems

2 voice systems for (armored) secured vehicles

3 Voice security systems for counters

Intervox, as a growing enterprise manufactures and develops its products for security oriented markets and public transportation manufacturers locally and abroad.

Intervox Systems earned great success and reputation do to its state of the art technology and ability to provide personal and professional service to its clientele.

Now days, In addition to its highly regarded security product line Intervox also specializes in costume made systems according to specific needs, taking under consideration future market developments.

Intervox believes that experience is a vital ingredient for establishing a reliable range of products, and is proud of being a leader supplier since 1974.